From the Publisher 6 x 9 1/4 trim. 42 illus. (20 color) LC 00-093291 About the Author Kathleen L. Housley has written for numerous journals including Woman's Art Journal, New England Quarterly, and The Christian Century. An Affiliated Scholar at Trinity College, in Hartford, Connecticut, her area of concentration is the interconnection of religion and American culture. In this regard, the manner in which Emily's belief in Christian Science led to her fascination with abstract art was of particular interest. Housley's book The Letter Kills But the Spirit Gives Life explores the lives of five 19th-century sisters involved in abolition and suffrage, one of whom translated the Bible from Hebrew, Greek, and Latin to prove the intellectual capability of women. Profits from the sales of this book will go to support innovative projects in the fields of learning disabilities, the arts, and the environment, the three focus areas of the Emily Hall Tremain Foundation
