

pages | File size: 65.Mb

Carl Steen

*audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC*

Excavations at
The Hitchcock Woods Pottery – 38AK172 – 2015

by
Carl Steen

The Diachronic Research Foundation
PO Box 50394
Columbia, SC 29250

April 2015

[Online library] Excavations at 38AK172- The Hitchcock Woods Pottery- 2015

Excavations at 38AK172- The Hitchcock Woods Pottery- 2015

Carl Steen : Excavations at 38AK172- The Hitchcock Woods Pottery- 2015 before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Excavations at 38AK172- The Hitchcock Woods Pottery- 2015:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Hitchcock Woods Stoneware Pottery siteBy G. DexterA really well done, first in-depth, look at this important 19th C southern stoneware pottery in South Carolina. Excellent photos and well researched. Good examples of some of the forms made there as well as various handles, rims and lips. Examples of alkaline glazes are plentiful and clearly show this uniquely southern method of glazing pottery. Students as well as advanced collectors will find this a "must have" in the reference library.

38AK172 is known as the Hitchcock Woods Pottery. It is located in Aiken, SC and was the site of an alkaline glazed stoneware pottery kiln. In 2015 preliminary excavations were aimed at determining whether the kiln was intact. We were successful in finding an intact kiln floor and waster pile. Artifacts, including partially reconstructed vessels from private collections, were examined and many are illustrated. This is a preliminary report on on-going work.